I've been accused this morning of being too pessimistic. In honesty, 2020 hasn't given us much to be optimistic about.

But I do have optimism, and it's this:

That ultimately Britons will not accept tyranny & will settle for nothing less than a full return of our freedoms. #kbf

We forgot what borders look like.
Some thought they would remain open with or without the EU
They will now start to understand what leaving the EU really means.

Sebastian Payne @SebastianEPayne

Manston Airport, which is becoming a lorry park for Dover, is where Brexit and UKIP began. The party took control of Thanet council in 2015 a major foothold after the airport was shut.

My mum: “We will do what we want for Christmas. I’m the boss in my own house and I won’t be dictated to. If @BorisJohnson wants to put me in prison aged 87, then let him. It’ll be an experience!” I love her so much. More balls than all the Cabinet.

Although I do discuss these issues with friends, I don't rely on them to 'know how bad this virus is getting'. I look at the data in context & draw conclusions. That's what millions of us are do, which is why we say what we say. But it's fine, you keep believing what you're told.

I've been accused this morning of being too pessimistic. In honesty, 2020 hasn't given us much to be optimistic about.

But I do have optimism, and it's this:

That ultimately Britons will not accept tyranny & will settle for nothing less than a full return of our freedoms. #kbf

Very sad to hear the news of Margaret Tebbit's death. She was a brave woman who showed enormous fortitude in her suffering after the 1984 Brighton bombing. My thoughts are with Norman and their family at this difficult time.

We are trapped in an abusive relationship with our Government.

They won't let us leave the house. They want to know where we've been and who we've seen. They attempt to instil fear in order to control our behaviour.

Will you put up with it?

I never said we should go back to normal tomorrow. I fully accept we are currently living in a global pandemic. But we have to balance lives, the economy and children's education. And banning the sale of toys this close to Xmas is absolutely absurd and morally wrong!!

I am flabbergasted that so many people have lived through 2020 and concluded:

"The government cares deeply about me. They should have more control over my life."

If my broadband provider suddenly reduced its services, and then insisted I need to 'protect' those reduced services by sacrificing my freedoms, I'd obviously laugh and take my business elsewhere.

But for some reason it's acceptable when it comes to the NHS.

Although I obviously don't want @BorisJohnson to sell us out, at least there may then be hope that he'll be abandoned by those currently supporting & enabling his authoritarianism.

Bons sold us out

Johnson has accepted that the bloc's share of the catch in U.K. waters should fall by 25% over a period of five and a half years. Britain had initially sought an 80% reduction over just three years, but in recent days had offered a cut of 30%

Antwort an @NewsOTWorld @BorisJohnson

Agreed. In my book it's extraordinary that any reduction was sought. I'd expect nothing less than 100% control over our resources from 1 Jan. If we sell access after that point then fine.

Some will argue that offering this reduction for a trade deal is is selling access.

The Divorce Bill is what May signed up for,for a very soft Brexit.
She also signed away most of which Boris Johnson has got.

If the #BrexitDeal is what it seems then I'm not that happy with some aspects including the level playing field.

BUT I can live with it.

AND most importantly - how mental have Remainers gone? 😂🤡🌎

Just so I understand this correctly

- As of 1 Jan we will still not have control of our fish stocks.
- We've signed up to the 'level playing field' on standards and competition.
- We are still paying the massive divorce bill

Is that correct?

Not quite What has happened is VDL was filleted by European media, because they realise this isn't the best ever deal for them

The EU is paying us for 5 yrs to rebuild our fishing industry.

And Liz Truss is on steroids making trade deals.

The deal is done. They say that some Prime Ministers are only ever remembered for one thing. For Boris Johnson that thing will be Brexit. His premiership was anchored in a promise to do what MPs proved unable to: Get Brexit Done. He has delivered both the exit & the trade deal.

Not a chance. Boris Johnson will be remembered for decimating our economy, destroying our mental health, and removing our basic freedoms in an insane display of government overreach

I think you might find that the afterburners have just been lit in the U.K. economy it will go gangbusters

Will take years to pay down national debt again. Ludicrous.

That's not the fault of Brexit!

Guy Verhofstadt seems completely oblivious to the fact that he himself embodies many of the reasons we voted to leave the EU. Every time he tweets he further confirms we made the correct decision.

#Brexit @guyverhofstadt

> Guy Verhofstadt @guyverhofstadt
> We forgot what borders look like
> Some thought they would remain open with or without the EU
> They will now start to understand what leaving the EU really means.

How extremely kind, and at Christmas too. Maybe take a look at Boris Johnson if you want to know why EU may not regret you

Jane Rackham #FBPE @JaneRackham2 17 Std

There are millions of British people who are heartbroken to be leaving the EU. To us, today is not a day of celebration.

This is your annual reminder that not everyone celebrates Christmas! The default to "Merry Christmas" as a normal greeting is also white supremacy culture at work. If someone celebrates, by all means But so many people don't.

Just so I understand this correctly

• As of 1 Jan we will still not have control of our fish stocks.

• We've signed up to the 'level playing field' on standards and competition.

• We are still paying the massive divorce bill

Is that correct?

Merry Christmas to all the supposedly tolerant, right wing, free speech advocates who troll my timeline when they don't like my opinions, and 'advise' me to 'check my thinking'

Enjoy your day off lol Let's hope you learn the meaning of the word 'irony' in 2021

This said, I do wish everyone as restful, peaceful, healthy, and joyful an end of 2020 as possible. Thanks for being here with me on Twitter all year long.

> Jen Bokoff @enbo1
> This is your annual reminder that not everyone celebrates Christmas! The default to "Merry Christmas" as a normal greeting is also white supremacy culture at work. If someone celebrates, by all means. But so many people don't.

Literally what is the point in @UNHumanRights. Utterly absurd.

Hillel Neuer @H ie Ne jer

One week from tomorrow a man who herded 1 million Uighurs nto camps, ails human rights activists crushed Tibet, disappeared courageous men and women who sounded the alarm on the coronavirus, and suffocated freedom n Hong Kong will join

We owe #Brexit, in large part, to @Nigel_Farage. Without him we'd never have even come close

Cheers Nigel and thank you

You also owe the victory in WW2 to Hitler for starting it

Farage just scared Cameron into having the referendum

That's demonstrably untrue. I've a good idea of what has been agreed & what will change. I don't understand fully the implication of every detail as I'm not a political scientist, but the important things we voted for have been delivered: sovereignty & democratic accountability.

Perhaps a controversial #Brexit shout out, but it would seem amiss to neglect the role @David_Cameron played here. He was the only PM brave enough to give us a referendum, and then showed integrity by stepping aside when he knew he couldn't take us forward.

Thank you, David.

Except that he came close to fucking it up for everybody by banging on about immigrants. He gave remainers the excuse they needed to characterise leavers as bigoted neanderthals, and reduce a complex issue to a dog whistle one. Thanks Nige

Adjust My Type @AdjustMyType 11h

As a remainer it's this that leaves the bitter taste. That one side was prepared to court a small, but possibly decisive, percentage of racists to achieve their goals. It's not the losing that hurts. It's the line that was crossed to achieve the victory I can't forgive

catty big @catty_big 10h

As a leaver what leaves a bitter taste is the relentless campaign on tv and social media by large numbers of remainers to cast all leavers as knuckle-dragging bigots. It's not the nearly losing that hurts, it's the tactics employed to try to achieve victory that I can't forgive.

Adjust My Type @AdjustMyType 11m

I think what really hurts is that you won with the bigots as your comrades. It's okay, I have to live with the guilt of being on the same side of the argument as George Osborne

Another #Brexit shout out. This time for Gordon Brown. When he quietly jetted off to Portugal on 13 December 2007 to sign the Lisbon Treaty, transferring yet more powers to Brussels, he lit a fresh fire under the Brexit movement.

Thank you, Gordon.

stop it! you've gone too far now that man like blair and major before him shamelessly acted against the interest of this country. if it wasn t for the likes of them the EU would have ended up paying us to leave rather than vice versa.

I'm not actually praising him. I'm saying his idiocy helped garner more support for the Brexit cause.

The irony of this tweet. Came out of school w/ 1 A level + still managed to work for the Guardian. That's called privilege Then asking a Black + a mixed race woman to educate him when he could google or pick up a book, he just wanted to waste their time

> David Atherton @DaveAtherton20
> H @junesarpong m from a white working class background, failed my 11+, Comprehensive educated, with 1 A Level, grade E.

Brexit has hit me today. What a total load of bollox. Britain is an international joke, anyone who has abroad last few years knows this. Most Brits still seem to think the country has some sort of empire. that others care. but no one gives a shit. They think we're all mad

The absolute state of you two I don't know what it's ke in the States, but here n the UK we value individual freedom. includ ng freedom to manage our own health risk.

And yes. I'm 99.99% certain not to need medical attention. but if do that s why I pay for the NHS

An Na @AnnaHoff65 7 M n

In the UK, the health system has been collapsing for years.
People who don't think logically are the reason for the many covid19 deaths not only n the UK.

BIG #Brexit shout out for James Goldsmith who formed the Referendum Party in 1994 in response to the Maastricht Treaty. They won 2.6% of the vote in the 1997 General Election, denying Tory victory in some constituencies & giving hope to the #Brexit movement.

Thank you, James.

I am deeply sad that we have left the EU but neither surprised or disappointed where we have found ourselves. expected it. BUT if had voted for Brexit would feel badly et down and pretty cross at finding us in a worse position when I was promised better

It will surprise nobody to learn I'll be voting against these Tory plans to force a hard Brexit on Scotland next week. Coatbridge Chryston and Bellshill will be among the most severely impacted by leaving the EU and all that entails. I will have no part of this #BrexitDisaster

Interesting. Is this an acknowledgment from @BorisJohnson that we are right to be concerned about the @wef? Or does he love it really but doesn't want to p*ss us all off too much?

BIG #Brexit shout out for James Goldsmith who formed the Referendum Party in 1994 in response to the Maastricht Treaty. They won 2.6% of the vote in the 1997 General Election, denying Tory victory in some constituencies & giving hope to the #Brexit movement.

Thank you, James.

Also, @NewtonClarkeJK, I'm entitled to be incensed about someone using a laughing face emoji, when I'm trying to deal with my dad's death. If you can't see that, you might want to check yourself for psychopathic tendencies.

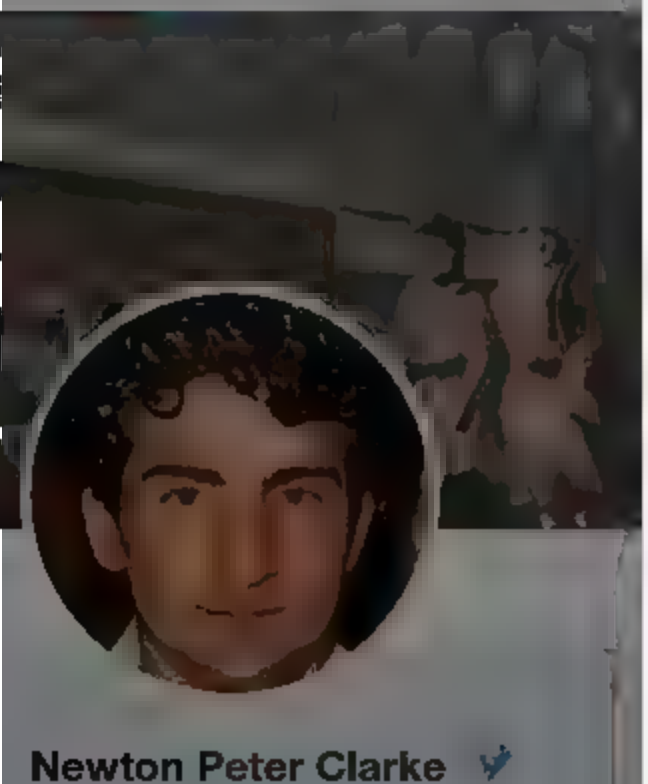
1. Condolences.

2. A man going to a supermarket without a mask had nothing to do with your father's death.



3. You're 'entitled' to say whatever you want. I'm entitled to say you're a psychopath for wishing someone 'burn in hell' and die on a ventilator for not wearing a mask.

They wouldn't necessarily need to go to Labour. With FPTP there would simply need to be a large split in the conservative vote, say with a party like Reform UK.

We'll see. Firstly we need to see how long Johnson keeps this sh*t up, whether he mandates vaccines, whether he introduces vaccine passports etc. Then we need to see if Reform UK or another party are a viable alternative. Three years is a long time in politics!

There's increasing evidence to suggest asymptomatic transmission of #coronavirus isn't happening.

If true there are huge implications. It would mean masks, social distancing, lockdowns have little to no impact & if you have symptoms just stay at home.

Message to @BorisJohnson You have a short window to save your premiership. You've sorted a Brexit deal (for better or worse). Now kick Witty, Vallance and Ferguson into the savannah and get this country open. All schools back, all businesses open. No masks, no social distancing.

I had a dream last night that I got transported to a vaccine facility on buses & they were trying to force me to have the #vaccine & I was like 'f*ck that, I'm not having that' & I managed to escape & went to hide in the woods with a load of other escapees. Kind of like Defiance.

They thought they couldn't get away with Maoist repression in Europe. But then they found they could. Shame on all those who should have defended our ancient hard-won liberty.

Sage…had watched as China enacted this innovative intervention in pandemic control that was also a medieval intervention. "They claimed to have flattened the curve. I was sceptical at first. I thought it was a massive cover-up by the Chinese. But as the data accrued it became clear it was an effective policy."

Then, as infections seeded across the world, springing up like angry boils on the map, Sage debated whether, nevertheless, it would be effective here. "It's a communist one party state, we said. We couldn't get away with it in Europe, we thought."… "And then Italy did it. And we realised we could."

There's increasing evidence to suggest asymptomatic transmission of #coronavirus isn't happening.

If true there are huge implications. It would mean masks, social distancing, lockdowns have little to no impact & if you have symptoms just stay at home.

National hospital bed occupancy is currently 85%. A figure that has been pretty stable for three months.
By contrast, bed occupancy for this quarter last year was 92%.
In fact, winter 2020 is the lowest hospital bed occupancy for 10 years.
Yes, really.

Please don't gather for New Year's Eve Please Hospitals are a war zone Maybe you're asymptomat c, but while you were fine and gathering, you could be the reason another person is alone in a hospital hallway and not f ne.

Please stay home Please.

The article you refer to actually states 'they didn't suggest that their findings were generally applicable.' So there was an absence of statement about general application.

In the study they do, however, give notes of caution, as with any research.

Way to be a wrong, Liam.

I can't even be bothered to watch this @BorisJohnson press conference.

I'll just assume he's going to absolutely f*ck everything (even more than he already has) and ramble on about trying to control the virus

What's the point?

It's #NewYearsEve - the final day of 2020. A year in which our Government, and those across Europe, overreacted to a virus that's not dangerous to more than 99% of the population, destroying lives & the economy.

Their motivation? The jury's out.

Your response? That's up to you.

This is what all sensible people have been asking for. I wouldn't buy a house without a surveyor and solicitor working on my behalf. This government seems happy taking the word from what is equivalent of the estate agent selling the property. Thatcher would never have done this.

Rate ,percentage rate ,increase the number of actual beds, you can have a lower percentage, but a higher number of actual beds than last year in total. simple maths if you don't get that have this great financial scheme just send me your bank deta s please.

If you bothered to look for yourself you would see that four of the seven regions have lower actual occupancy numbers than this time last year

Ps. your Christmas ads are sh*t.

As a percentage. but of course if you increase the number of beds, you can have a lower percentage. but a higher actual figure not rocket science for anyone who can add up 2 + 2 in their head. Ps the store has a great range of calculators for you

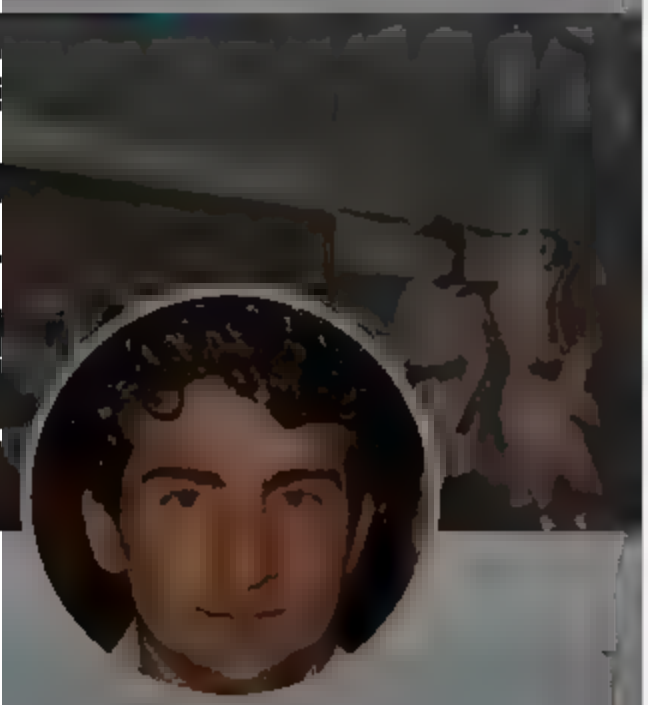
Yes, absolutely, beds have increased, which is a good thing.



And still in actual numbers four of the seven reason have fewer beds occupied than last year.

Not sure what you're struggling with here.

Many of the Covid vulnerable do not want shielding or endure months of loneliness and isolation. So shield those who want to be shielded and let others have the choice to live on their own terms. That's how a free society should work. The alternative is authoritarianism.

It's #NewYearsEve - the final day of 2020. A year in which our Government, and those across Europe, overreacted to a virus that's not dangerous to more than 99% of the population, destroying lives & the economy.

Their motivation? The jury's out.

Your response? That's up to you.

There is no justification for a third national #lockdown.

In the coming days there will be increasing momentum behind the idea of increased measures to 'protect the NHS'. The reality is ICU bed occupancy rate is below average for this time of year.

Amazing there are still people downplaying the seriousness of Covid, even as numbers hospitalised hit a record high.

More people died with Covid this year than were killed in road accidents in GB over the next 40 years

But we still put on seat belts. Lets control Covid too.

ONCE AGAIN Nigel Farage's name is missing from the New Year's Honours list. Whilst nobody is casting aspersions on Her Majesty's impeccable judgement, it must be galling for Mr Farage to realise the Queen thinks Jimmy Savile, Rolf Harris and Stuart Hall are all less of a cunt than he is.

It's been @BorisJohnson's personal pledge to get #Brexit done, and he has delivered, under intense pressure, what many thought impossible, a deal between sovereign equals. The UK has finally won back sovereignty

The crowing & gloating in the Mail & Express etc has a distinctly uneasy edge they know Brexit is a disaster & won't last. & their anxiety shows. They're worried, & are right to be

The fight against this historic error goes on and Rejoin will win it.

Review of 2020:

Brexit got done.

Home Secretary, @pritipatel, did a few good things then people tried to get her sacked.

The @Conservatives went full lunatic authoritarian.

PM, @BorisJohnson, realised he isn't a libertarian after all.

Brexit got done again.

The End.

Agreed, we have nothing to celebrate.

This should have been glorious, instead it's miserable

And that makes it all the more miserable TBH cos this should have been OUR MOMENT but Boris sold us out to the globalists, has wrecked our country and destroyed the lives of millions.

Right, that's #Brexit over with.

Now, can everyone who was preoccupied with Brexit focus their attention on the fact our Government has removed our basic freedoms with no guarantee we'll ever get them back. Thanks.

NEW chart thread:

The latest UK Covid data paints a dire picture, with London and much of the south now in a worse position than they were at the spring peak, and hospitals struggling to cope

18% of tests in London now come back positive, and rates are climbing everywhere.

Covid test positivity rates are still soaring in London and the wider south

Your Government has removed a number of your rights set out in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

They have done this by using ‘emergency powers’.

It’s important to note that there’s no provision in the declaration for suspension of rights - in fact, the opposite.

Your Government has removed a number of your rights set out in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

They have done this by using ‘emergency powers’.

It’s important to note that there’s no provision in the declaration for suspension of rights - in fact, the opposite.

The virus is clearly out of control.

It's not good enough for the Prime Minister to hint at further restrictions at unspecified times and then do nothing

He must put national restrictions in place within the next 24 hours

No more dither, no more delay.

Oh, I know we have a sh*t government. Hence the desperate need for opposition.

In reality parliamentary democracy always requires a strong opposition to function effectively.

But well done for attempting to be patronising and making yourself look a numpty.

In the next couple of weeks we are going to find out the hard way no group of activists has ever been as spectacularly, irredeemably, dangerously wrong as the Winter 2020-2021 Lockdown Sceptics. I hope they at least have the humility and humanity to acknowledge their error

Author of fraudulent polls, @YouGov, claims 79% of people want to go back into #nationallockdown.

Do you even know anyone who wants to go back into full national lockdown?

Most people I know apart from a couple who feel the most inconvenienced by it.

No one wants it but do see it as necessary in the current situation. Pretty simple

This is to those that don't understand the other side of Lockdowns, those that don't see or hear the desperation of many like Mike.

Thought provoking, upsetting and an illustration of probably millions of people right now.

Fine, if they want to curate content on their platform they should lose their protected ‘Platform’ status and be regulated as a publisher then. Simple. They can’t have it both ways.

Of course they can (and are). It doesn't mean they're wrong or inaccurate though. It's a fallacy to suggest all output of an organisation should be inherently mistrusted based on a blanket statement.

I was asked to take part and it was simple questions about do you or don't you support the following... You can't just rubbish a poll because you don't like the result or it's just like Brexit all over again

Newton Peter Clarke @NewtonCarkeJK 7 Std

Well, can... and I have

YouGov was founded by the Government's Vaccine Minister. Don't trust it for one minute. Polls can be a powerful tool to shape public opinion

Thomas Ridley @TomRidleyUK 29 Min

Of course they can (and are). It doesn't mean they're wrong or inaccurate though. It's a fallacy to suggest all output of an organisation should be inherently mistrusted based on a blanket statement.

Newton Peter Clarke @NewtonCarkeJK 6 Min

How do you know which part you can trust and which you can't then?

@EssexTory 1 Min

On that basis you are saying you don't believe any data from anywhere. Well unless it's saying something you happen to agree with

The Tale of Three Lockdowns. One you might excuse on the grounds of inadequacy and panic. Two begin to look like carelessness. But imposing a third lockdown because the first two failed is an example of doing the same thing over and over again, expecting a different result.

In the current context the far more relevant axis is Authoritarian-Libertarian.
Authoritarianism, left or right, always leads to oppression & suffering.

If you support #lockdown you might want to check yourself.

Good news you were able to have your scans. Millions of others weren't so fortunate.

It's just an example, Steve. Take your pick really. There are hundreds of videos out there posted between March and now. The one above was during full national lockdown. You're a sad guy.

Every single one of the 524 MPs who voted for these #coronavirus restrictions did so knowing they are:

- Increasing non-Covid deaths.
- Destroying our mental health.
- Damaging our children.
- Decimating our economy.
- Sacrificing our jobs.

With no evidence #lockdowns work

> Matt Hancock @MattHancock
> Tonight, MPs approved the COVID restrictions by an overwhelming majority of 508.
> This action is vital to protect our NHS & save lives as we roll out the coronavirus vaccine

DC police made 68 arrests and 56 officers were injured during pro-Trump insurrection at the US Capitol

Local authorities announced that five people died after a mob of Trump supporters entered the Capitol building and engaged with riot police on Wednesday afternoon as Congress held a joint session to count the 2020 Electoral College votes. Lawmakers later reconvened to certify President-elect Joe Biden's win in the 2020

Heartbreaking news. Another 1,325 deaths from Covid – the highest number of UK deaths reported on a single day since the outbreak began

These deaths are not a surprise. They were predicted by SAGE.

Yet the prime minister – unforgivably – chose to stop following science 😡

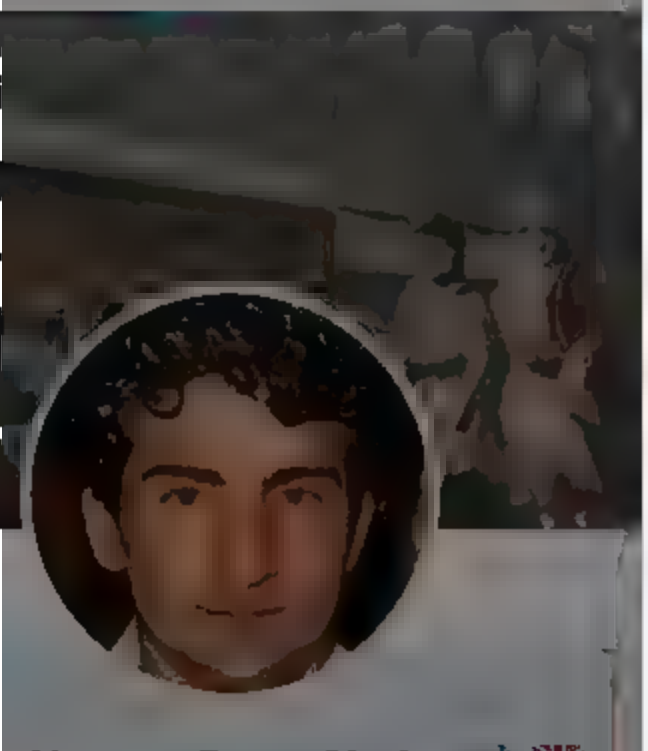
Excess deaths in England during the pandemic

Excess deaths by date of occurrence in 2020 vs. 2015-19 average by cause
Data up to 2020-12-18. Date of occurrence data can have substantial reporting delays, particularly in recent weeks, e.g. around 2% of deaths that have happened will be missing from the most recent 2 weeks of data



Data from ONS. Plot by @VictimOfMaths

Nonsense. The west, indeed, the whole world stands on the precipice of a New Dawn for humanity. This will be a world far better than any of us have known. We were born slaves and many of us were so inured to our status, we never even knew. No more. It's over. Shoulders back.

Key word s "healthy" They must have been tested neg to be in that cohort
Masks protect passing on d sease That's why they work best on a QUID PRO QJO basis.
Because healthy people can be infected for few days before showing symptoms crucial for al to wear them eg indoor shops

Hmm how odd that in that I don't see that paragraph anywhere in there. I see it says mask alone are ineffective, that it needs to be combined with social distancing and good hyg ene

This document, which is an update of the guidance published on 5 June 2020, includes new scientific evidence relevant to the use of masks for reducing the spread of SARS-CoV-2, the virus that causes COVID-19, and practical considerations in exclusion updated advice and guidance on the following:

- mask management
- SARS-CoV-2 transmission
- masking in health facilities in areas with community spread and sporadic transmission
- mask use by the public in areas with community and cluster transmission
- distribution of non-medical masks to the public
- exhalation valves on respirators and non-medical masks
- mask use during vigorous physical activities
- essential parameters to be considered when manufacturing non-medical masks. Annex

Key messages

- The World Health Organization (WHO) advises the use of masks as part of a comprehensive package of prevention and control measures to limit the spread of SARS-CoV-2, the virus that causes COVID-19. A mask alone, even when it is used correctly, is unlikely to provide adequate protection or source control. Other infection prevention and control (IPC) measures include hand hygiene, physical distancing of at least 1 metre, avoidance of touching the face, respiratory etiquette, adequate ventilation in indoor settings, training, contact tracing, quarantine and isolation. Together these measures are critical to prevent human-to-human transmission of SARS-CoV-2.
- Depending on the type, masks can be used either for protection of healthy persons or to prevent onward transmission, source control.
- WHO continues to advise that anyone suspected of infection or testing COVID-19 positive, including those awaiting test results, should wear a medical mask when in the presence of others (this does not apply to those providing a test, travel).
- Both the correct, appropriate use, storage and cleaning or disposal are essential to ensure that they are as effective as possible and to avoid an increased transmission risk.

Mask use in health care settings

- WHO continues to recommend that health workers providing care to suspected or confirmed COVID-19 patients wear the following types of mask (respirator as well as medical mask) in addition to other personal protective equipment that are part of standard droplet and contact precautions:
  - medical mask in the absence of aerosol generating procedures (AGP);
  - respirator (N95 or FFP2 or equivalent) or medical mask (or equivalent) in any settings for COVID-19 patients where AGPs are performed; these may be used by health workers when providing care to COVID-19 patients in other settings if they are widely available and if needed in an emergency.
- In areas of known or suspected community or cluster SARS-CoV-2 transmission, WHO advises the following:
  - universal masking of all persons (staff, patients and visitors) in health care facilities, including primary, secondary and tertiary care (i.e. outpatient and long term care facilities);
  - wearing of masks by outpatients when physical distancing of at least 1 metre cannot be maintained or when patients are mixing in waiting areas.
- In areas of sporadic or suspected sporadic SARS-CoV-2 transmission, health workers working in clinical areas where patients are present should consistently wear a medical mask. This is known as targeted universal masking for health workers in clinical areas.
- Exhalation valve respirators are discouraged as they release the filtration function for exhaled air by the wearer.

Mask use in community settings

- Decision makers should apply a risk-based approach when considering the use of masks for the general public.
- In areas of known or suspected community or cluster SARS-CoV-2 transmission:
  - WHO advises that the general public should wear a non-medical mask in indoor settings, shared workplaces where one is able to maintain physical distancing of at least 1 metre cannot be maintained;
  - indoors, unless ventilation has been assessed to be adequate. WHO advises that the general public should wear a non-medical mask, regardless of whether physical distancing of at least 1 metre can be maintained.

Key word s "healthy" They must have been tested neg to be in that cohort
Masks protect passing on d sease That's why they work best on a QUID PRO QUO basis.
Because healthy people can be infected for few days before showing symptoms crucial for al to wear them eg indoor shops

Nope. No evidence of asymptomat c spread In fact, quite the opposite.

Asymptomatic = healthy Always has been, always wi be.

If you'd like to put forward your evidence, then please do.

Besides this entire discussion, even if asymptomatic spread was happening, which it isn't, at no point do I ever want a government to overreach and mandate mask wearing.

Culturally the West is broken. Totally fractured. Two sides pulling in opposite directions. Things that once united us have been undermined. Sense of national identity, which once held nations together, is dissipating. Powerful cultural forces are at work. The West is in decline.

Oh ffs, Paul, sort yourself out.

Community settings

At present there is only limited and inconsistent scientific evidence to support the effectiveness of masking of healthy people in the community, except in association with respiratory illness (including SARS-CoV-2) in large, predominantly indoor, poorly ventilated settings in which, for short periods, healthy people were in close contact with a group wearing masks, such as passengers on a bus. One small cluster randomized controlled trial in which 286 healthy participants were randomized to wearing medical masks or no masks found no difference in infections with SARS-CoV-2 and a systematic review found nine trials of which eight were cluster-randomized controlled trials in which [illegible] people, usually individuals were randomized to encouraging medical surgical masks or no masks to prevent the spread of viral respiratory illness. Four trials were with healthcare workers and seven in the community. The authors concluded that wearing masks made little or no difference to the prevention of influenza-like illness [illegible] in healthcare workers and in the community. In addition, a small, cluster, randomized controlled trial from Bangladesh found that encouraging people in villages to wear masks when outside their homes during the flu season resulted in a significantly lower incidence of influenza-like illness [illegible] in the intervention villages, although the study was underpowered to detect a difference in the prespecified primary outcome of laboratory-confirmed influenza. All of the evidence was still inadequate

A number of studies were published or released in the first few months of the epidemic. A study reported a decline in the UK [illegible] was associated with face mask usage by the public using [illegible] of geographic data. One study reported an association between community mask wearing policy adoption and increased international travel-related exportation of cases. These studies differ in setting, study years, and viral transmissibility and have significant methodological limitations. Overall, the lack of information about adherence to mask wearing and the other effects of other prevention measures [illegible]

Studies of influenza, influenza-like illness and human coronaviruses (not including SARS-CoV-2) provide evidence that the use of a mask at home, in the period 1 to 5 days after symptom onset, by a symptomatic infected person to reduce the risk of onward transmission of the virus to household members [illegible] Some studies suggest that wearing a mask at home in the period 1 to 5 days after symptom onset by healthy individuals sharing household with a sick person, or among attendees at mass gatherings [illegible]

Personal protection

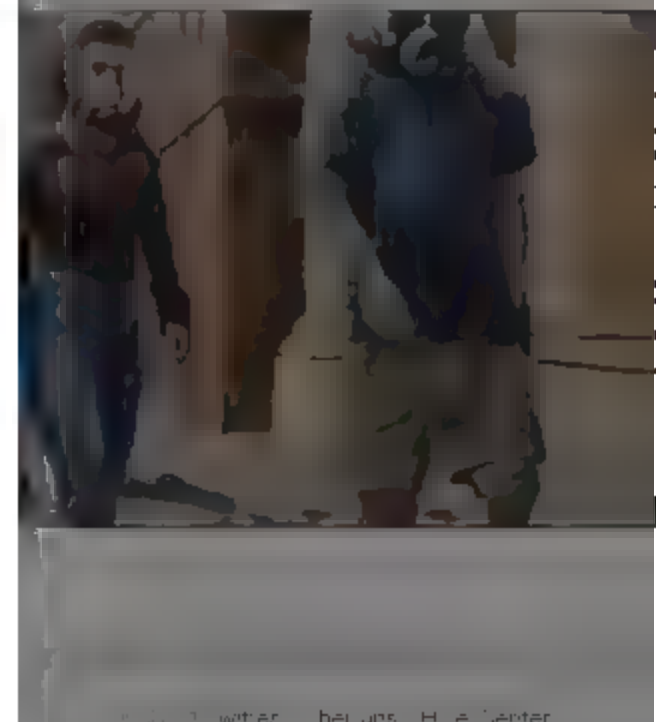
The WHO [illegible] considered all available evidence on the use of masks by the general public, including effectiveness, uncertainties and other practical benefits and harms, with respect to transmission of viruses causing respiratory illness, physical distancing and ventilation. Despite the limited evidence of benefit, a risk of harm, and a low certainty of evidence, the WHO advises that wearing masks in community settings in addition to all other recommended preventive measures, the CDC advises mask wearing in the following settings:

- In areas with known or suspected widespread community or sustained transmission of SARS-CoV-2, WHO advises mask use by the public in the following situations (see Table 1):

Indoor setting

In public indoor settings where ventilation is known to be poor, guidance on physical distancing cannot be adhered to (e.g. crowding in shops and buses), natural ventilation cannot be maintained or cannot be assessed

In public indoor settings that have adequate ventilation (e.g. opening of at least [illegible] cannot be maintained



In household indoor settings when there is [illegible] who is not a household member and ventilation is known to be poor with limited opening of windows and doors for natural ventilation while isolation measures cannot be observed or in the period [illegible] regardless of whether physical distancing of at least [illegible] can be maintained

In household indoor settings that have adequate ventilation, physical distancing of at least 1 metre cannot be maintained

We are not in normal times, the country is in a crisis, the elected government have to deal with it, who would if they don't? Whether you think what they are doing is right or wrong by law of this country, we all need to comply, for fairness and the good of all citizens.

(((Dan Hodges))) @DPJHodges 6 Std

I'm noticing several lockdown sceptics are starting to shift their focus towards a discussion of at what point in the vaccination cycle we can start to remove restrictions. That's a much more productive debate and one everyone should try and buy into

225 77 933

Claire Fox @FoxClaire 5 Std

One issue: 'lockdown sceptics' label too often used to caricature what differing people believe & make false assumptions that negate nuances. This too can be the enemy of productive discussion. Does not signing up to "there is no alternative to Lockdown" equate w misinformation?

45 57 581

(((Dan Hodges))) @DPJHodges 4 Std

Then the responsibility lies with lockdown sceptics to clearly differentiate their positions They also need to come up with practical alternatives But what is no longer sustainable is the argument the pandemic response is the product of an erroneous analysis of data

Update on @amazon attempting to crush Parler. We live in crazy times.

Checking out Gab this morning for the first time. I'm impressed.

On iPhone they've bypassed the AppStore by optimising for web. You can just add a link to your desktop for Gab and it looks & functions like any other app. They also have their own servers.

This is where I live Theres more to the story than being shown We have monitored cameras here, and these ppl had been seen roaming around town, then going to the beach to sit on the benches.
Lockdown isn't meant to be out & about for hours of leisure I'm with the coppers.

As you know, I'm one of the most anti-lockdown people you'll meet. But even I'm feeling the pressure of conditioning.

I know this because when I watch something on TV & see people close together or hugging it feels odd for a split second.

Does anyone else get that?

It's not discriminatory. Not providing an equivalent accessible service to people with disabilities is discrimination. Masks are not a 'protected characteristic' and it's reasonable to ask people for evidence they can use exemptions. Proving a blue badge is yours, for example.

Goodness me. Are you a serving police officer? How is this so hard for you to understand?

gov.uk/government/pub ...

- you do not routinely need to show any written evidence of this
- you do not need show an exemption card

This means that you do not need to seek advice or request a letter from a medical professional about your reason for not wearing a face covering.

However, some people may feel more comfortable showing something that says they do not have to wear a face covering. This could be in the form of an exemption card, badge or even a home-made sign.

> Carrying an exemption card or badge is a personal choice and is not required by law.

No proof of exemption is required under law. They can ask all they want but cannot refuse service/access because none is provided. That is specifically against government guidelines, not provided for in law, and therefore discriminatory. Astonishing you don't understand this.

I wouldn't require proof (and in any case we could not require people to carry it) In my experience simply challenging those not wearing masks and asking them "are you medically exempt" is quite effective as those caught out with no good reason are embarrassed.

I'm happy to volunteer that I am medically exempt. That's not an issue. The issue is refusal of service/access.

My doctor surgery's policy is to not provide exemption certificates because they aren't required. This is common.

Good to see daily Covid hospital admissions falling in England. Too soon to be due to last week's lockdown. As the ZOE app data imply, was beginning to happen before Lockdown 3 was imposed.

And if anyone tries to say this latest lockdown brought numbers down you can point out that the curve for Covid hospital admissions was already on the way down long before lockdown could have had an effect.

1. Why would I presume to manage the risk of others?

2. Risk is often mutually managed between people. E.g. if a family member is immune vulnerable you agree not to see them if you have a cold. As has been the case in my family for the past 20 years.

If Covid hospital admissions in London & SE were falling on 10 Jan, that means Covid infections were falling in late Dec (as ZOE app also shows). That CANNOT be an effect of the current lockdown. So doesn't that mean Lockdown3 was NOT needed to reduce Covid transmission? 🤦‍♀️

Dr Mary Ramsay, Head of Immunisation at Public Health England, says we may need to "allow the disease to circulate in younger people where it's not causing much harm."

So basically exactly what we should have done in the first place...

The new #COVID19 variant is spreading fast, and around one in three people with coronavirus don't have any symptoms

Stay at home and don't bend the rules.

Existing staff will NOT be forced to have the vaccine

We will, when vaccinations are readily available, make having one a condition of employment for all new staff who are able to have the vaccine safely.

So you're going to discriminate against people? Disgusting and probably illegal. I imagine you've taken legal advice but good luck defending your position in court, which is where it will end up.

Antwort an @hatwearer2034 @BorisJohnson

Yes. Countries who acted quickly were able to some extent prevent the disease becoming endemic - although now they literally can't move through fear of reintroducing it.

BUT we didn't do that - so to pursue hard lockdown strategy once the virus is endemic is ludicrous.

China did do this, they locked down wuhan yet still allowed international travel, they could of done more. From telling us the truth and not whispering in the WHO ear. Or by not allowing such travel. Don't be so out of touch. There's real investigations to be had.

I disagree Whilst there may be some false positives and some false negatives. the error s consistent, so the DELTA it shows s 100% accurate If the cases have gone down, that means that transmission has definitely gone down. And t s clearly due to the ockdown

Hospital admissions are already going down...

That will have been as a result of decreased infections over the Christmas period. We are way beyond stage 1, and it had nothing to do with lockdown.

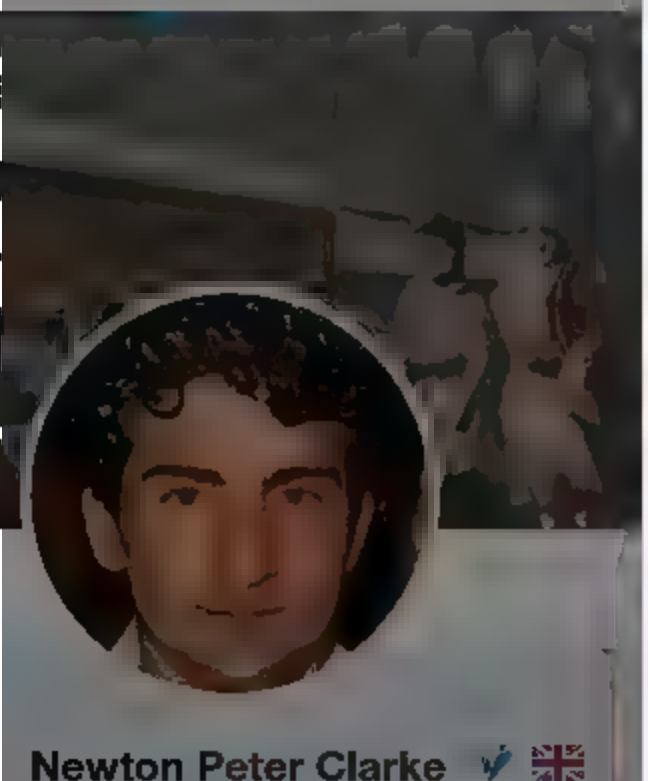
Could be multiple factors, including the natural bell curve you would find with most viruses, as we saw in March/April. But I'd be speculating. If you're interest you should do some research.



The one thing that's for certain is that it isn't because of lockdown.

Because if you accept the timeline below (which is what the government and medical professionals have said all along) then it is literally impossible for a lockdown to cause a decrease in hospital admissions after just three days. Seems quite straightforward.

It takes weeks before infections show in numbers of deaths

Example of how a serious case may progress

New research from Stanford University

'While small benefits cannot be excluded, we do not find significant benefits on case growth of more restrictive NPIs '

Log on, lad

Sam Axup @smaxup 5 Min

"Implementing any NPIs was associated with significant reductions in case growth in 9 out of 10 study countries"

Seems you missed a bit. It also doesn t take into account how well the population adhered to the NP s. It also classed the US as an mrNPI country mao

You've misunderstood the study (not surprising). The conclusion is referencing lockdown restrictions vs people taking their own action to manage spread. Try again.

The question with free speech is where do you draw the line ? Who 'polices' millions of opinions ? Who shapes the narrative ? Tech companies, Governments ? Very difficult but I agree a sinister undertone We tolerate as a nation diverse opinions but what if they cause violence?

Antwort an @TheWozmeister @ClarkeMicah

There are already laws regarding incitement to violence. If a crime is committed then it should be reported. Other than that there should be no further filter, obviously.

So you think it is acceptable for a sitting MP to use this kind of language on a public platform? What a disgrace.

It's difficult, isn't it. We want our MPs to be more ordinary, more like us, less lofty and when they are we criticise them! My language is pretty ripe sometimes. It doesn't detract from my ability to do the job & I wouldn't swear in meetings!

Lockdown announced on 3 January. Hospital admissions started coming down around 6 January. It takes around 15 days from infection to hospital admission. Therefore, had nothing to do with lockdown.

Infection rate data is so inaccurate it's meaningless. Has been since the start. Only two reliable(ish) data points are admissions and deaths.

Having lost 700 followers this week I'm suspicious Twitter is up to some jiggery pokery. If you usually follow me can you check you still are?

Would really appreciate RTs.

"In the summer holidays, I'm going to Cornwall"

Health Secretary Matt Hancock is confident we'll have a "great British summer" but admits "we've got a lot of work to do"

Any chance of vaccinating everyone before September would be a "bonus" he adds.

Do you want to know what the biggest cause of death was in 2020?

Abortion.

42.7 million innocent babies were brutally murdered before they even were born

That is more dead than in WW1

This is evil

34 296 678

Sail @SailAwayOnBlue · 26 Min

That's a massive amount it's very sad & wrong but, abortion is NEVER black&white Peter there are SO many reasons for it be it, medical (harmful to baby and/or mother) & rape victims. child abuse victims who fall pregnant you can't look at it through the numbers glass

Newton Peter Clarke
@NewtonCarkeJK

Antwort an @SailAwayOnBlue @PeterSweden7 @philevisw...son

Medical reasons/rape victims count for an extremely small fraction of abortions. Less than 1%. So if we can agree abortion in all other cases is wrong then we can chat about those few cases you mention.

When people are so stupid they ask the question below, it will be a long wait and #Manksock will exploit to the full.

Did Knights actually fight?

In actual fact, knights did fight in battles. Interestingly, before the advent of longbows or crossbows, they were quite brazen with their tactics, preferring to charge into battle (on horseback usually) even before the main lines engaged. This is because they were literally the walking tanks of medieval history

The atrocities of Nazi Germany didn't begin with the killing of millions of people...the same with most authoritarian regimes. It started with convincing the public that extreme action was required to solve a 'problem'.

We'd do well to remember that.

Pregnancy

There are no or limited amount of data from the use of COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT162b2 in pregnant women. Animal reproductive toxicity studies have not been completed. COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT162b2 is not recommended during pregnancy.

For women of childbearing age, pregnancy should be excluded before vaccination. In addition, women of childbearing age should be advised to avoid pregnancy for at least 2 months after their second dose.

Breast-feeding

It is unknown whether COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT162b2 is excreted in human milk. A risk to the newborns/infants cannot be excluded. COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT 162b2 should not be used during breast feeding.

Breast feeding
It is unknown whether COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT 62b2 is excreted in human milk. A risk to the newborns/infants cannot be excluded. COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT 62b2 should not be used during breast-feeding.

Fertility
It is unknown whether COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT 62b2 has an impact on fertility.

Blue Boy @B ooboy 8 M r

There is no evidence means there is no evidence. The statement is accurate. It doesn't mean make up whatever sh t suits you want. There is no evidence the vaccine wil not give you superpowers. There are good reasons to believe the virus is much more likely to affect fertility.

I'm literally referencing a government document that states the impact on fertility is 'unknown'.

I'll probably go with that rather than the Twitter ramblings of 'Blue Boy', but thanks anyway.

Saga Holidays @SagaHolidaysUK 4h

A message to all holiday customers. Please read our vaccination FAQs, which apply to bookings made prior to January 20, 2021 here >>>

saga.co.uk/holidays/vacc

> vaccination programme has started to be rolled out across the country with many of our customers amongst the first groups of people to be offered the vaccine.
> With this in mind and having spoken with our customers, we want to ensure we are providing the safest possible experience whilst they are on holiday with us. Therefore, we have taken the decision to introduce the requirement that all customers must be fully vaccinated against COVID-19 at least 14 days before travelling with us.
> In order to allow our customers enough time to be fully vaccinated we have decided to extend the suspension of our operations for our hotels, touring and river cruise programmes until 1st May 2021 and will be contacting all customers affected over the coming weeks.

Get the story right.

According to the report, the convoy included some 40 trucks and armored vehicles and was backed from the air by helicopters.

It entered Syria from Iraq via the al-Waleed crossing to bring arms and logistical equipment to the bases in Hasakeh and Deir Ezzor provinces.

Other local media report that such maneuvers are not unusual as the US often moves transfers equipment between Iraq and Syria

Nazi leader Hermann Goring explains how people can be made fearful and to support a war they otherwise would oppose:

> The people don't want war, but they can always be brought to the bidding of the leaders. This is easy. All you have to do is tell them they are being attacked, and denounce the pacifists for lack of patriotism and for exposing the country to danger. It works the same in every country [3]

The replies to this moronic article give me hope.

A more appropriate headline would have been: 'Joe Biden tramples on women's rights and destroys women's sport on first day in job'.

The Government thinks this is a mandate to continue restrictions & lockdowns. It isn't. In fact, it's the opposite. If the virus is going to circulate regardless then that's the end of their 'strategy'. I think most people will realise that.

Of course. The mRNA instructs production of a protein that acts as pathogen, so all vaxed people are spreaders. When you visit oncology wards, there's usually a sign averting recently vaccinated people from entering. What's the surprise? Do the reading, get informed

Yes, I understand and have 'done the reading', thanks. And we aren't just talking about the 'recently' vaccinated here. Considering this is the first mRNA 'vaccine' approved for use I'd say the signs you've seen in oncology wards have nothing to do with mRNA 'vaccines'.

1459 Health protection regulations: international travel etc.

(1) The appropriate Minister may by regulations make provision—

(a) for preventing danger to public health from vessels, aircraft, trains or other conveyances arriving at any place,

(b) for preventing the spread of infection or contamination by means of any vessel, aircraft, train or other conveyance leaving any place, and

(c) for giving effect to any international agreement or arrangement relating to the spread of infection or contamination.

(2) Regulations under subsection (1) may in particular include provision—

(a) for the detention of conveyances,

(b) for the medical examination, detention, isolation or quarantine of persons,

(c) for the inspection, analysis, retention, isolation, quarantine or destruction of things,

(d) for the disinfection or decontamination of conveyances, persons or things or the application of other sanitary measures,

(e) for prohibiting or regulating the arrival or departure of conveyances and the entry or exit of persons or things,

(f) imposing duties on masters, pilots, train managers and other persons on board conveyances and on owners and managers of ports, airports and other points of entry, and

(g) requiring persons to provide information or answer questions (including information or questions relating to their health).]

One bonus of the Government keeping schools closed (with teaching unions complicit) is that no school will ever be able to say you can't take your kid on holiday in term time ever again... 'because it would affect their education'. Lol.
